MISSOURI INVESTIGATORS GROUP

MIG was founded in 2000 to provide a reporting venue for witnesses of unusual events. Many unusual events occur in Missouri each year, which are not reported and subsequently are not investigated. A goal of MIG is to have representatives in each of the 115 Missouri counties. This would create a reporting network of spotters who will be aware of what is happening in their areas and report current activity to the group. Director Barbara Becker.

If you are interested in participating in this effort, please email ufomig@yahoo.com

I represent MIG, the Missouri Investigators Group based in Columbia, Mo. <http://ufomig.yolasite.com>. We investigate UFO, Animal Mutilation, Bigfoot, Crop Circle and Abduction reports in Missouri and surrounding states. If anyone in Oregon County has experienced anything unusual, please contact me by email at UFOMIG@yahoo.com or go to our website and make a report. <http://ufomig.yolasite.com/online-report-form.php> all information will be kept confidential.

Thank you, Barbara Becker

GEORGIA ABDUCTION RESEARCH

Alien Abduction

The term or abduction phenomenon describes "memories of being taken against one's will by apparently nonhuman entities, and subjected to complex physical and psychological procedures." People claiming to have been abducted are usually called "abductees" or "experiencers." Typical claims involve being subjected to a forced medical examination that emphasizes their reproductive system. Abductees sometimes claim to have been warned against environmental abuse and the dangers of nuclear weapons. Consequently, while many of these purported encounters are described as terrifying, some have been viewed as pleasurable or transformative.

NEWS FROM THE INSTITUTE OF FRONTIER SCIENCE

The Institute Of Frontier Science gives a great opportunity for those who are writing or making reports in the field of Ufology, as well as seasoned researchers. Its founder and leader is Steven S. Bass, who in addition to being the Founder and Director of the Institute is also well known and respected by everyone involved in the Ufology community.

" The Institute of Frontier Science is an elite fellowship of highly experienced and knowledgeable specialists in the scientific field of Ufology."

The Institute of Frontier Science offers people the chance to embark on the truths that lie within the UFO genre. IFS will also educate the uneducated on a subject that has been kept behind closed doors for much too long. The institute will take time to build, but already has the "Big Guns" in place. IFS is for the truth and nothing but. People are encouraged to join this great undertaking, for what I am sure will be a rewarding and educational venture into the science of Ufology.

PARANORMAL TIPS

How science rather than the spirit world is what really makes the Ouija board move

- Ideo-motor effect explains how actions are believed to be work of spirits
- Thought processes connected to movement and what caused it are not connected, which can cause confusion

By Daily Mail Reporter

PUBLISHED: 12:17 EST, 30 July 2013

To many, Ouija boards are a sign of dark magic, a way to allow people to receive messages from the spirit world by being guided around the board's letters. However, the Victorian parlor games and other 'spiritual' devices such as: dowsing wands, are guided by the people holding them scientists have found. Under a phenomenon known as the ideo-motor effect, muscles and movements can move without a person being aware of the action, leading many to believe they have witnessed some form of magic.

Is there anybody there? Scientists say the only thing moving the Ouija board is the players using it. The mystery therefore is not how these inanimate objects appear to move of their own free will but how people are able to make the movements unconsciously and attribute it to an imagined power.

With Ouija, the supposed link to dark magic took off when one of the boards, which were first invented by Parker in the 1890s as a parlor game for automatic writing, was used in the film The Exorcist. The boards were used as a way to try to contact the dead during the First World War, and during a rise in Spiritualism in the U.S. at the turn of the last century. Scientists say it is possible to recreate the effect by hanging an object such as a ring from a foot-long piece of string. When the string is held at arm's length the weight will swing in small circles, even if the arm is held still. The string helps to exaggerate tiny movements that the person holding the string is not aware of making, while the weight tied to it conserves the movement and helps turn it into a regular swinging motion known as Chevreton's Pendulum.

The same principle applies to so-called magic devices where, for instance, a person may ask a question and believe that the clockwise or anti-clockwise motion of the circles is providing an answer given by a spiritual realm. It can also be used to explain dowsing and 'radiation detectors' that are claimed to be able to detect health problems when waved over a patient's body. In an experiment similar to how the Ouija board is used, scientists showed how care givers believed they were able to communicate with disabled patients by guiding their fingers around a keyboard.

Trick of the mind: The results of dowsing or Ouija boards are caused by tiny movements the person is not aware of making. Researchers found that although the care givers believed they were responding to prompts from their patients, the 'facilitated communication' messages were actually coming from them. Psychologist Daniel Wegner, who died last month, explained in his book The Illusion of Conscious Will, that the mental processes that directly control a movement are not connected to the processes that decide what caused the movement. Because of this, if a person is under the belief that they have not moved their hand, they are less likely to make a connection to any small movements that they have made.

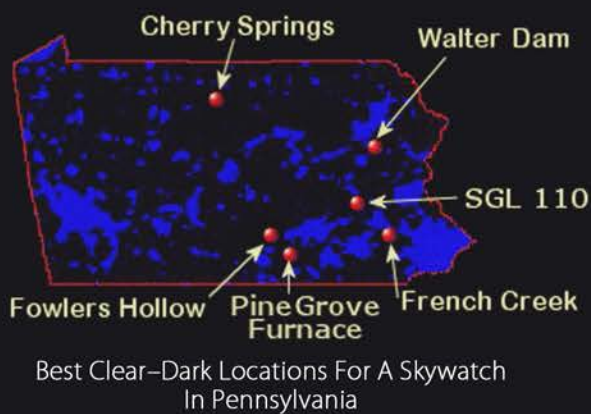

PENNSYLVANIA LEGENDS: TUGGY THE WITCH

(Bryn Mawr, Montgomery County)

The Harriton House dates back to 1682. It was a land grant given by William Penn. Mr. Rowland Ellis built a home on that site, in 1704. Richard Harrison bought it in 1719. Although a Quaker, Harrison was a tobacco farmer from Maryland. He grew tobacco at Harriton too, and employed slave labor to farm the crop. It's thought, in fact, that Harriton was the northernmost slave plantation in America. One of the slaves was named Tuggy, who knew some voodoo. She didn't like it in Pennsylvania and wanted to return to her Maryland family. She tried to kill her hated owner, first by poisoning his morning cup of chocolate. But at knock at the door saved him from drinking the concoction, and Tuggy came up with a Plan B.

She went to the graveyard with a wooden stake. Some think she tried to raise a body from the dead to do her bidding while others believe she was trying to cast a death spell on Harrison. Whichever, it worked - but on the wrong victim. A bloodcurdling scream was heard from the graveyard that night. Being superstitious, no one ventured into the bone yard until morning.

There they found Tuggy's body, staked to a grave. The legend says that she accidentally drove the stake through the hem of her dress, and thought that a dead man's hand was pulling her down into the grave to join him. She died of fright.

FOX NEWS POLL September 20, 2013

Question: Do You Believe In Bigfoot?

National: 30% Absolutely
45% No
25% Not Sure

Pennsylvania: 7% Absolutely
50% No
43% Not Sure

The UFO is Gods vehicle. God has been abducting humans for quite some time now. If you have been abducted. Just know it is God. We cannot see God, and God mask's itself as aliens and uses a UFO. The reason is, God abducts humans mostly to cross breed with other alien worlds or, sometimes humans are abducted and God shows them their soul history maybe because the abductee was a gray alien before this world.

The reality is this! And I state it as fact not fiction please don't confuse what I am telling you! There are at least 12 dimensions that we know of and mass and energy can exist without protons or neutrons! Our dimension is expanding and others are collapsing. The aliens are shifting through them. Some are escaping others are exploring! There are also wars between the aliens and our world has been claimed by some of them and they will use it if and when they want! There is no uniformity or Galactic Federation among aliens and don't forget we are alien to them. Our world is bug infested and our people are nuts! So don't expect to many aliens wanting to stay here!
